i don't believe so. No one really said anything negative about him. We can extrapolate and say that he is a bit of an "idiot savant" or naive outside the ivory tower of academia.

ok. In support of this claim, you can add that Meyer has been working in academic institutions (and "away from the world") since he went to college in 1996.

I didn't put it all together in one place. In the the KFs, I added the line, "Lawsuit against Uber: Sources close to Meyer allege that Meyer believes he has a legitimate grievance against Uber, which he felt was worth pursuing. " in 3rd paragraph of General Background, I added the comment that Meyer's a rational person

And I did not quote the source on Meyer's lack of political views, because that point was already made.
